Today – Intermittent showers gradually become less likely as the morning progresses under a mix of sun and clouds. Dry conditions are largely expected this afternoon as drier and more stable air moves in behind an area of low pressure moving off to the northeast. Windy conditions are forecast throughout the day – sustained near 20-25 mph and frequently gusting between 27-32 mph from a westerly direction. Winds will increase slightly overnight into Monday – with gusts nearing 40 mph. High temperature: 80°F.
